POOLE JOINS O'DONNELL

A MAN BY THE NAME OF MR. JONES

Officially as a member of the Black Flag floats over Richmond, Va.,

and the crowd dis persed.

DUBLIN, Dec. 18.—Joseph Poole was hanged for the murder of John Kennedy within the walls of Richmond prison, at 8:05 this morning. Last night the prison guards were doubled and an adequate force was kept in reserve in case of emergency.

Before 6 a. m. a few knots of men and women gathered outside the wall. Later their numbers increased, until quite a crowd had assembled, the women being largely in the majority. A group gathered around some who denounced the unhinged and suggested the one who was about to die. The crowd was frequently addressed by speakers who had been confined in the prison, and the names of O'Donnell, Smith, O'Brien, and

Stephens were heard from many lips; neither were Dwyer, Gray, Tim Healey, and Michael Davis forgotten. Poole slept at intervals last night, and arose about six when he had a light breakfast. He then passed himself with his death-knell, reading from the "Key of Heaven" and "Lives of the Saints," and praying whenever he laid

JERSEY CITY'S GREAT SCANDAL

Testimony Elongated in the Gordon-Bra lin's Case

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Dec. 18.—The room of the Court of General Sessions was crowded Monday by men and women be cause of the announcement that the trial would be begun of Captain George J. Gor dons, who was recently arrested here for having abducted, from Arizona, Addie

Braun, the adopted daughter of Patrick

Braun, a wealthy resident of Long Island.

A jury was selected in a very short time. The District Attorney then briefly opened the case, stating that the de fendant had been indicted for abduction with intent to seduce and deflower, and that he was also charged with having actu ally deflowered the complainant. Several witnesses were examined as to Addie's age, all of whom put it at fourteen years. Add ie Braun was then called. Counselor

Daly objected to the competency of Addie as a witness, on the ground that, under the laws of the State of New York, she was the wife of the defendant. The girl was then sworn to her competency. She admitted that her signature to the marriage contract was hers, also that the three letters produced in which she ad ressed Gordon as "My Precious Husband," terrible explosion took place shortly be fore noon, by which two men were fright fully mangled and four others less seri ously hurt. The large boiler was blown across the railroad track a distance of nearly one hundred feet, scattering debris, hot water and debris in all directions. The following is a list of the injuries: James Fisher, badly cut and bruised, with flying fragments, recovery doubtful; Samuel Henderson, frightfully burned face and body by escaping steam;

Robert Smith, killed; John Goss and Christian Goss, the sons of John Goss, were killed. The bodies of the two men who were killed were found near the boiler. The boiler was blown from its

A BAD OUTLOOK

Gloomy Prospect of the Coal Trade for the Winter.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 18.—The river coal trade, according to leading operators, has not been in such a bad shape for years.

Beginning at New Orleans the same story of big stocks and low prices is repeated all the way up the Mississippi and the Ohio.

The result of this state of affairs is found in the closing within the last few days of nearly all the largest works of the Mono gabell River. Walton's three works are shut down, throwing over 700 miners out of employment. Brown's are closed except their Maitshury works. O'Neil's Woods, Fawcett and others are closed.

Gamble and Fisher's men are on a strike.

A strike is probable in the Third Pool against the acceptance, in some pits of re duced wages. The situation among the railroad mines is not much better than on the river, and altogether the outlook is a notably gloomy one for the coal men in all branches of the trade.

There is a cedar tree in the colored people's cemetery in Americus, Georgia, that was planted at the head of a negro's grave in a picher ten years ago. It burst the bottom out of the picher and took root in the earth. The picher still encircles the tree, which is about ten feet high.

Signor Foll, the gigantic Irish basso, who will be remembered in New York, and who was known of the stage as Tim Foley, of Tipperary, has brought an action against Mr. Bradshaw for assaulting him at a concert in London a few weeks since, and the trial is expected to give much amusement. The accused assailant is very diminutive.

A man who pretended to be a deaf mute, and to be a member of the G. A. He gave the name of W. H. Smith, is five feet and ten inches in height, of dark complexion, with black hair and beard.

When it was announced that Mr. Jas. G. Blaine was about to write a book his adversaries had a double incentive to rejoicing. They were glad from the job point of view. They were glad in addition, because it was understood that Mr. Blaine would no longer appear on the surface of politics. It was given out, indeed, that the politician was to be merged in the author, and that the Plumed Knight was in the future to seek literary fame instead of Presidential nomination.

THE MONOLOGUE OF DEATH.

[These lines spoken by the Spirit of Death, the guide of a White Pilgrim, are altered from a tragedy called "The White Pilgrim," and printed for the first time in their present form.]

Miscall me not! Men have miscalled me much; Have given harsh names and harsher thoughts to me, levelled and evilly entreated me, built me strange temples to an unknown God; Then called me idol, devil, unclean thing, And to rude insult bowed by godhead down. Miscall me not! for men have marred my form, And in the earth-born grossness of their thought.

Have coldly modeled me of their own clay, Then fear to look on that themselves have made. Miscall me not! ye know not what I am, But ye shall see me face to face, and know.

I take all sorrows from the sorrowful, And teach the joyful what it is to joy; I gather in my land-locked harbor's clasp The shattered vessels of a vexed world; And even the thinnest ripple upon life Is my sublime edict, as royal storm; When other leechcraft tails the breaking brain, I, on the anodyne to still the ebbles into visionless repose; The face, distorted with life's latest pang, I smooth, in passing, with an angel-wing; And from beneath the quiet eyelids steal A new and nobler beauty to the rest. Belle me not! the plagues that walk the earth, The weeping pain, the sudden agony, Famine and war, and pestilence, and all The terrors that have darkened round my name— These are the plagues of life—they are not mine.

As woe will I tarry, vanish when I come, Instantly melting into perfect peace, As with ill word, whose Master spirit I am, The troubled waters slept on Galilee. When I will draw the veil that hides my face, So met I with a look the iron bonds Of the soul's jailer, hard and stern, and gently—so gently—like a friend, Will I unfold thee; but thou dost not look Upon my face, and stay. In the busy haunts Of human life—in the temple and the street, And when the blood runs fullest in the veins— Unseen, unperceived, I am often by, Whived from the glare in his strong stare, But by the thickness of this misty veil.

Tender I am, not cruel; when I take The shape most hard to human eyes, and pluck

The little baby-blossom yet unblown, The but to graft it on a kinder stem, And leaping o'er the perilous years of growth Unwept of sorrow, and unheeded of wrong, Clothe it at once with rich maturity. 'Tis that give a soul to glory, For round the foliage of the leaf I throw The mantle of a kind forgetfulness; While, counseled in dear love's calendar, I sanctify the good for evermore. Miscall me not! my generous fullness lends Home to the homeless; to the friendless, friends; To the orphaned babe, the mother's tender breast; Wealth to the poor, and to the restless—Rest.

Queer Quarrel Over the Spots of the Dead.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 18.—The will of Jennie Larkin, late of Schoharie, Schoharie County, is being contested in the Probate Court at Schoharie. The instrument, which conveys, in all, property valued at over $20,000, bequeathed to Larkin's wife $25,000. During Larkin's last illness his wife was prostrated by sickness, and her death occurring the day before that of her husband, the bodies of the old couple were buried simultaneously in one grave. No offspring survived them, and the contest is between the nephews of the husband and those of the wife.

Terrible Domestic Tragedy.

MT. STERLING, Ky., Dec. 18.—News has just reached here of a sad tragedy in Morgan County. Last Thursday three sons of Elias Debusk, aged respectively fourteen, twelve and eight years, were sent to the cornfield by their father to shuck corn, and while there the oldest became offended at the youngest, pulled a thirty-two caliber pistol from his pocket and shot him through the heart, killing him instantly. No arrests have been made.

The Wicked Chicago Aldermen.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—There was a great uproar in the Municipal Council Monday night when the Aldermen supporting the Chicago and Evanston railway charter voted it triumphantly over the Mayor's veto. Aside from the jobbery that is alleged in back of the ordinance, there are many other objections to this measure giving this road the right of way for all time through the most valuable portion of the city.
